Thank-Offering.

Dear heavenly Friend, for thy best gifts Of peace and hope and love, Take thou our holiest offering,

And to thy home above,
Make fast our restless, wandering hearts, By thy sure anchor, faith; Save us from foolish cares of life And the vain fear of death.

duide all our purposes aright, Turn us from error's way; And lead our thoughts back unto Thee, Howe'er so wide they stray. To Thee alone is homage due Let us not fail in this, Nor seek through strange, alluring path Of earth, for heav'nly bliss.

Still for the blessings daily sent From out th' eternal store, Tune all our hearts to thankfulness, Now and forevermore. Forever-for eternity

With all its wealth of good, What human language can we find To speak our gratitude!

Nay, words are naught to Thee whose eye The inmost heart can see; A pure desire, a noble life, Are sweetest praise to Thee. Helpus to render this, dear Lord! Since by thy grace alone,

Our wishes blossom into deeds Which glorify thy Throne. ROSELIA H. STRICKLAND. Hastings, N. Y.

THE NEW YEAR'S GIFT.

It was New Year's Eve; a cold, blusering night. The wind dashed the frozen sleet furiously and pitilessly against the sturdy walls of the Red Stone Farmhouse, making the bright fire that was burning in the large, old fashion kitchen feel doubly grateful, around which was gathered farmer Williams, his wife and four children. The weather bronzed face of the farmer has a careworn discontented look. He is one of those who "make haste to be rich." and though he is surrounded by many blessings, and every reasonable want is supplied, at the close of the old year finds no surplus in his purse, his heart, instead of being lifted up with gratitude, is filled with repinings.

His gentle meek-browed wife is sitting ten in her eyes as they wander to a cor-resignation that made that gentle such a heaven of peace and love. drifting heavily.

The long silence was broken by a heavy knock at the door. Farmer Williams opened it, revealing a respectable, middle aged colored man, who held carefully in his hand a covered basket. "Does Mrs. Williams live here?" he in-

"She does." "The lady who buried a child yesterday ?"

"Yes." "Well, here is a New Year's present for her."

Thrusting the basket into the farmer's hands, he turned and walked quickly down the road, where could be dimly months old. Farmer Williams sprang to the door, but the sleigh and its occupants were nowhere to be seen. In the meantime Mrs. Williams and the children gathered around the basket with exclamations of surprise and pleasure. As the babe saw the sweet, gentle face that bent over it, it suddenly stopped crying and, smiling, it stretched out its little hands to her. The heart of the bereaved mother yearned towards it, and taking it in her arms she pressed it fondly to her bosom. Just then her husband

"Anyway, the authorities will have to take care of it; we can't. We've got more mouths to fill now than we can find bread for." Mrs. Williams' lip quivered as her mind reverted to the little grave in the churchyard. Ah, to her heart there was one ed mother, the place of her lost darling, loved and cherished by her with equal tenderness. Many sacrifices did she make, many toilsome hours did she spend, in order that her husband might not feel the expense of his maintenance too heavily. And well did his growing intelligence and beauty, and the ardent affection he evinced for her, repay her for itall. There was nothing about him that could give the slightest clue to his parentage. Simply a bit of white paper pinned to his frock, on which were these words, evidently written by a woman, in a graceful, but unsteady hand: "Arthur, born August 2d, 1851. I was a stranger, and ye took Farmer Williams made some inquiries in the neighborhood, and learned that a lady with an infant, accompanied by a servant, had been stopping for a week past at the village tavern; that she was very beautiful but pale and sad, and kept to her room most of the time. But they had disappeared as suddenly as they

It is just ten years from the time Mrs. Williams received her New Year's Gift. Let us take another peep in the kitchen of the Red Stone Farmhouse. The group is smaller now than then. The farmer who murmured ten years ago that he had so many mouths to feed, has now only one child left him, the little flaxen-haired girl that is sitting beside his knee. The rest are all sleeping in the little church-yard. A heavy misfortune has befallen him; the thirst for riches has brought its usual curse. Possessed with the mania for speculation, he mortgaged his farm-house and all it contained. The bubble burst, and the dawning of the New Year found him a ruined and homeless man. This was the last night that he and his wife were to remain in the old homestead that had been in his family four generations, and was linked to his heart by so many tender memories. On the morrow they were to go, they hardly knew whith-

But when Arthur recalled to mind the look of sad, remorseful tenderness with which he had regarded him, he felt that it must have been his father. Yet he of ten said that he wanted no dearer friends than those he already had. And as for Mrs. Williams, among all the blessings that surrounded her, there was not one that brought a purer joy, than he whom she had taken to her heart, when a friendless babe, her NEW YEAR'S GIFT.

"Another New Year's gift, I suppose," he said bitterly, as he handed it to her for he was in a bitter mood. Mrs. Williams glanced reproachfully at her husband.

"God grant that it may bring us as miles an hour. convened, and President Castelar read his message. He congratulated the Cortes on the improved condition of the country, and asked the members to forget party strife and unite for the preservation of the country and in placing the republic on a secure foundation. On the 3d the Cortes upon a decree gave majorities of twenty against the government. General Pavia, a friend of Castelar, at the head of 14,000 troops then took possession of the government palace, and dissolved the Cortes. After the dissolution of the Cortes, General Pavia summoned the leaders of all parties to form a new government. The Cortes asked Castelar to remain at the head of the new Government, but he refused, and a new ministry with Marshal Serrano as President has been formed.

Organization of the Legislature.

The organization of the Legislature was completed on Tuesday, with Mr. Husted as Speaker. The annual message of the Governor was read, the reading occuping one hour and a quarter. The following is a brief synopsis of THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The message of Governor Dix gives evidence of great care in its preparation. It is a masterly review of the affairs of the State by one who thoroughly understands them, and is capable of directing them so that the interests of the people will be cared for. The condition of the State is found satisfactory. Our debt compared with our resources is small. and a few years of economy in expenditures will yield sufficient surplus to pay it. On the 30th of September, 1872, it was $25,386,722.84. On September 30, 1873, the close of the last fiscal year. It was $21,191,359.34. But the reduction of $4,195,346.50 which the figures show is only apparent, as temporary loans were made to redeem the State stock falling due in 1873.

The receipts for the fiscal year were $16,803,138.24; disbursements $14,-371,737.63; balance in treasury September 30, 1873, $2,431,450.61.

The expenses of erecting public buildings are outrunning the estimates. The greater portion of this excess is credited to magnificence of plan and suppression of true cost by architects, for fear their plans would be rejected.

A serious abuse exists in regard to the payment of State taxes into the State treasury. By law the county treasurers are required to pay State taxes into the State treasury one-half on or before the fifteenth day of April, and the balance on or before the fifteenth day of May. This provision is disregard, and the comptrolfor is ferced to borrow money and the people are taxed to pay the interest on the loans.

It is recommended that some action be taken by the Legislature which will place trust companies on the same footing with banks.

The Governor recommends the passage a general law defining the powers of savings banks and repealing all special privileges of charters inconsistent therewith. That these institutions may be secure, it is recommended that the amount which any individual may deposit should be limited; that a higher rate of interest than five per cent. should not be paid; and that no director or officer of a savings bank shall be an officer or director of any bank of discount in which the moneys of the savings banks are deposited.

Against special legislation, the warn-of last year is renewed. In reference to the defalcation in the State treasury, the Governor says "there is not the slightest grounds for impeachputy, or any other subordinate in the office except the defaulting clerk." But he does not entertain a doubt that the defalcation is due to the unwarrantable Would inform the public that he is confidence reposed in Phelps by the treasurer and his deputy. The amount of the as they can be bought for in Syracuse or defalcation, $304,975.91, will have to be elsewhere. I will sell prints from 6 cts.

made good to the treasury by a tax. All topics of State concern are discussed in the message with clearness. With the single exception of the currency, it is confined to State matters. With an apology for toucking upon this national question, the Governor gives his friend of the missionary and the traveler, on sea and land, and no one should travel on our Lakes and Rivers without it.

It has been before the public over thirty years, and probably has a wider and better reputation than any other proprietary medicine of the present day. At this period there are but few unacquainted with the merits of the Pain-Killer;

but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands to-day, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of family medicines. It is sufficient evidence of its virtues as a standard medicine, to know that it is now used in all parts of the world and that its sale is constantly increasing. No curative agent has had such wide spread sale or given such universal satisfaction. It is a purely vegetable compound, and perfectly safe in unskilled hands.

After thirty years' trial, is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues, from persons of the highest character and responsipersons of the highest character and responsibility. Physicians of the first respectability, recommend it as a most effectual preparation for the extinction of pain. It is not only the best remedy ever known for Bruises, Cuts, Burns, &c, but for Dysentery or Cholera or any sort of bowel complaint, it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency and rapidity of action. In the great cities of India, and other hot climates, it has become the Standard Medicine for all such complaints, as well as for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, and other kindred disorders. For Coughs and Colds, Canker, Asthma, and Rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an invaluable medicine. an invaluable medicine.

The four rows of trees a little before the house on each side are plum, and those a little below, planted in circles are peach. Those are bananas, but only for ornament, as the fruit does not ripen here. The lightest frost kills the leaves. Those trees with only a few straight branches are fig. They look awkward, and are so, as nograceful tree would send out its fruit on a naked branch, and with so short a stem as to make it appear to be resting directly on the bark. The figs begin to ripen in June, and the trees do not cease bearing until November. Stop here upon the porch and look around you. When those trees along the walk get larger you can scarcely find a prettier place, and so rapid is the growth here, that the time is not long to look forward to. Obituary.

To the death of Mr. Samuel A. Adams, at Baltimore, on Sunday morning, the 14th ult., "The Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes" has sustained a great loss. Since February, 1859, he has devoted himself to benevolent work among the deaf-mutes of Baltimore, holding Sunday afternoon services for them in the Sunday-school building of Grace church. Had he lived till Christmas, he would have been 58 years of age. He was a gentleman of cultivated mind and pleasing manners. His style of sign-making was clear and impressive. He was conscientious in the discharge of all his duties, and won the esteem and love of all who knew him. His funeral was atbended in Grace church, Baltimore, on Wednesday, the 17th ult., at 10 A. M. The service, read by Drs. Leeds and Gissey, and Rev. Mr. Gholson, was interpreted by Dr. Gallaudet. On the following Sunday P. M Dr. Gallaudet held a service for deaf-mutes in Grace church, and expressed his views in relation to Mr. Adams' life and character. In regard to the above deceased, Mr. C. K. W. Now, this is rather far from the truth. The columns of the Advance have of late been filled mostly with poorly written articles and often with the worst specimens of English composition. Are these the productions of our "ablest deafmutes?" We do not doubt that they think, and the editor thinks, that they are good writers, yet we see many mistakes in what they write for the Advance. There is no pondering among us about this. We know whose fault it is. If the Advance wants to claim, with honor, that it has the "ablest deaf-mutes honor, that it has the "ablest deaf-mutes in the country as correspondents," it had better get a good proof reader and set him to work day and right and set him to work and the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February, last of the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February, last of the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February, last of the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February, last of the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February, last of the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February, last of the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February, last of the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February, last of the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February and the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February and the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office, the 9th day of February and the power of s they do not want their articles spoile and he advised everybody to be careful by omissions of clauses, or whole and how he was handled. M., in Liber 74 of mortgages, page 207. And whereas the said mortgage and the debt intended to be secured thereby, were, by the said Rhoda Griffin, on or about the 13th day of June, 1871, duly sold and assigned to Henry A. Baker, then of the town of Constantia, county of Oswego, N.Y., and the said mortgage was, on the 17th day of June, 1872, by the said Henry A. Baker, duly sold and assigned to Samual H. mutes and their education, take up and read several numbers of the Advance, and then come across the sentence which the editor used in making believe that his paper has the ablest deaf-mutes in the country as correspondents, what would be his idea of deaf-mutes and the standard of scholarship among them?

Now, this may influence him to join in the rather popular belief that deafmutes cannot accomplish much; and should it lappen that a mute applies to him for a position as copyist, clerk, bookkeeper, or the like, he is very likely to be refused it, because his would-be employer thinks he cannot fill it as well as hearing persons.

This is rather discouraging. Shall, we as hearing persons.

This is rather discouraging. Shall we go on without doing what we can to prevent the further spread of this evil?

Plainly, no. We should and must, if we would that our many difficulties be removed, unite together our determined efforts and try to put a stop to such causes of evil as the one just brought before us. There is no difficulty or impossibility about this if every intelligent mute will lend a hand. Just resolve that "united, we stand; divided, wefall" and selected to too sectation. New York, Dec. 28, 1873.

Dear Journal:—The old year will soon take its departure and will then be a thing of the past, and I take this method of wishing all my readers a happy new year and many returns of the same.

Many of the pupils and about half of the teachers of the New York Institution are spending the holidays with their parents and friends and we doubt not parents and friends and we doubt not its peace.

Mortgage Sale.—Whereas default has Mortgage sale, which are brave enough to tell in print just what they think of it. We would warn the Advance that in our case this won't do. It has time and again said that nothing but good personalities are allowed in its columns, and we want it do what it says it does. We want it to give us articles that are fit to be read, in a word, we want it to reform or forever after to hold its peace.

IMPORTANT TO MANUFACTURERS. WHAT IS SAID OF THE WEAVER TURBINE

WATER WHEEL. This is to certify that we, the undersigned, have just put in one of the Weaver Turbine Water. Wheels, and we would state that one half of its merits have not been told; we have been using one of the best center discharge wheels that could be put in, which drew one hundred and seventy inches of water, and the Weaver Wheel only draws ninety-six inches of water, and we can, without any contradiction, saw one-fourth more lumber than we ever could with the other in its best days. And we make this statement for the benefit of both the Patentee and the public, and we can convince any one of its truth by their calling at our mill, Mexico, near the Raliroad.
